BETTER TIMES AHEAD

BUSINESS MEN SAY THERE ARE SIGNS THAT TRADE IS IMPROVING

It is impossible to close one's eyes to the signs that are multiplying on all sides testifying to the improvement of trade and general business. There is no doubt that the financial stringency that has held the country in its grip for so long a time is getting easier. Naturally there is room for improvement. Things are improving very slowly, it is true, but the change is noticeable.

"One of the first symptoms of a change for the better," said D. G. Crofton, proprietor of the Crofton shoe shop, to a representative of the Glendale Evening News Friday, "is the attitude of the public in the matter of collections. Collections are better now than they have been for some time past. I believe that is the first indication of a turn in the business tide. There is room for improvement, but the outlook is brighter and confidence is gradually being restored."

Other business men are of similar opinion. On all sides it is confessed that business in Glendale is better now than it has been for some time. The people of the city are learning to make their purchases here and beginning to understand that it is not only right, but also profitable also to patronize local business houses.

Tradesmen in Glendale are also improving their stocks and offering larger and more varied selections of goods to the people. The matter of trading is mutual. The more Glendale people patronize the local stores, the better the stores become, and the more prosperous is the city.

COMPLIMENTARY DANCE

There was a large attendance at the complimentary dance given by Mrs. Wayland Brown to Miss Virginia Marvin, the talented youthful dancer. Virginia is only fourteen years old, but dances with an intelligence and cleverness that usually only comes with years. She is one of the most accomplished dancers ever seen in Glendale. Butler's hall was filled with a large and appreciative audience. The other children repeated the dances given by them at the Festival of Fruits and Flowers. Mrs. Payne, Mrs. Van Etten and Mrs. John R. Barrows supplied the music for the occasion. With delicious punch, wafers and merriment a pleasant afternoon was spent.

The hall was delightfully cool and beautifully decorated. Virginia Marvin and her sister, Alice, led the grand march, after which the youthful danseuse gave several charming dances—"Spring," danced to the accompaniment of Mendelssohn's Spring Song; Hoffman's lively "Barcarolle," the Russian Slave Dance and the Invitation to the Dance. Several "pas seuls" were danced by Miss Harriet Barnes, Miss Winifred Jones and Miss Dorothy McGinnis. The one-step, fox trot and other new dances enlivened the afternoon.

Mrs. Paine entertained the company with several cleverly executed violin solos. Mrs. Van Etten and Mrs. Barrows gave piano selections and Mrs. David Black assisted at the punch bowl.

PURCHASES BRANCH BAKERY

M. S. Adock, who resides at the Fulmer apartments on Broadway, purchased the branch bakery formerly owned by Mrs. Rutner at 1112 West Broadway on Friday of this week. The interior of the storeroom will be remodeled and Mr. Adock will reopen for business Monday of next week and will sell Sauter's bread and bakery supplies, and will conduct a luncheon business in connection. The new owner of this bakery has had varied experience in the restaurant, luncheon and bakery business and expects to quickly build up a large patronage.

RUFUS A. GOODALE

Rufus A. Goodale, father of A. R. Goodale of 1439 Sycamore avenue, Glendale, died at his home in Ontario, Cal., July 22, aged 66 years and 22 days. He was born in Wisconsin, June 29, 1849, but had lived in California about six years.

Funeral services were held Saturday morning from the Pulliam Undertaking parlors. Interment was in Forest Lawn cemetery.

NEED NOT WEAR COATS

Rev. E. H. Willisford, pastor of the First Congregational church, says: "If this hot weather continues men who attend services at this church need not feel compelled to wear coats. Comfort rather than suffering conventionality will prevail.

CITY HEALTH GOOD

DR. CHASE, HEALTH OFFICER, SAYS GLENDALE SANITARY CONDITIONS IDEAL

Dr. R. E. Chase, Glendale's efficient health officer, finds little to criticise in the sanitary conditions of the city. "It would be difficult," he said to a representative of the Glendale Evening News on Friday, "to find another city of this size where health conditions are better. Glendale is fortunate in having, in the first place, the finest climate from a health point of view any city could possess.

"From the mountains comes down pure air, invigorating, enlivening. From the ocean come breezes toward night laden with ozone. If the days are sometimes quite warm, the nights are delightfully cool and healthgiving. Indeed, it would be difficult to find a climate better suited to all kinds of constitutions.

"Again, the residents of Glendale are a superior class of people. They are people who rank far above many communities in general intelligence. They are substantial people from a financial point of view. They take pride in their homes. They keep everything about them in scrupulously clean condition.

"It is not to be wondered at that in a city of such strong leanings toward sanitation there should be comparatively little sickness and no epidemics. Glendale has had a few sporadic cases of measles lately, but beyond that and the danger from that source is past, there has been nothing to chronicle.

"As a rule whatever cases of sickness in the shape of zymotic disease we have had in Glendale have been imported. It is not astonishing that with a large part of our population working in Los Angeles, cases of sickness contracted in the city should have to be cured in Glendale. In this way we had one case of typhoid this season. Typhoid never originates in Glendale. This city has a water supply of such purity that no contagion can originate from that source, which is the common cause of typhoid in other places.

"The state board of health is becoming more and more rigid in its regulation of sanitary conditions. The result is that contagious disease is at once segregated and the possibility of its spreading minimized. Tuberculosis, which shows such a high percentage of cases and deaths in California, makes but a poor showing in Glendale. At a matter of fact, most of the tuberculosis cases in California are imported. The patients come here usually when it is too late. They seldom give either the climate or the medical faculty of the state a chance to cure them. Under such conditions it is not remarkable that tuberculosis shows a considerable percentage of deaths in the state.

"It is the same with other diseases. Throughout the state the natives are healthy. They are strong and generally free from congenital diseases, but the immigrant population is different; while many of them are strong and healthy, quite a proportion is diseased and has come here only after hope has gone and they arrive merely to add to the death rate.

"Glendale is to be congratulated on its immunity from serious disease and on the general excellent health of its inhabitants. Careful sanitary supervision will go far to keep the city in that desirable condition."

DELIGHTFUL PICNIC AND SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT

The evening picnic of the Presbyterian Christian Endeavor society at Echo park Friday evening was a delightful affair. After the delicious luncheon was enjoyed to the fullest, all joined in playing games on the spacious lawn. Then, later in the evening, when the moonlight made the lake irresistible, boating was the favorite pastime.

We were glad to welcome several strangers and hope to have the pleasure of greeting them at our regular Sunday evening services at 6:30.

Tomorrow evening will be a special occasion. Miss Helen Smith, our representative in China, will bring us a message from her mission field. Those who heard her at the Woman's Missionary society picnic know what a treat is in store for us. All young people cordially invited.

JUNIOR RALLY

The Juniors of the Christian Endeavor society of the Presbyterian church will hold a rousing rally on Wednesday afternoon. Good speaking, good singing and everything else that goes with a successful rally. Each Junior is asked to interest others and bring a friend with him. Every Junior should be present at this meeting.

FINE NEW COURT

PACIFIC AVENUE PLAYGROUND OPENED WITH GAMES AND MUSIC

Pacific avenue school has many advantages. Not the least of them is its new playground, which has been thoroughly equipped and fitted up for every kind of amusement. The new playground will be formally opened today with music and games. A large attendance is expected. The new grandstand that has been erected at one side of the ball ground by May Bros. seats 300 people.

To the west of the stand is the tennis court, constructed of cement and shut in with a wire inclosure. This is one of the best courts to be found anywhere. It is spacious and nicely fitted up. The court will be opened by a game between May Sutton, the Pacific coast champion, and Mary Brown.

Pacific avenue school has the advantage of having a very large ball field. This afternoon the opening game will be between the college alumni, a team made up of young men from different colleges, and the Hollywood Stars. Both teams are made up of good players and a keen game may be expected.

Miss Rowe, who is in charge of the playground, says that between fifty and sixty children take advantage of the privileges every day. They have a maypole, a merry-go-round, croquet, basketball, volley ball and other amusements.

The following ladies were in evidence early this morning preparing for the crowd: Mrs. Clarke, who has charge of the pencil selling department; Mrs. E. S. McKee, cafeteria dinner; Mrs. Earl Bond, vegetables; Mrs. G. B. Roach, salad; Mrs. Lucy Durham, coffee; Mrs. Stephen C. Packer, ice cream and sherbet; Mrs. C. H. Woolsey, pastry and dessert; Mrs. L. Dack, punch; Mrs. J. Hearnshaw, decorations; Mrs. G. H. Jordan, dishes; Mrs. A. A. Warde, furniture. Mrs. Ella Richardson has been active in every department and has done much to make the whole affair a success.

The central court of the schoolhouse was set with many tables for the cafeteria dinner and the ladies had prepared a variety of meats, potatoes, vegetables, salads, ice cream, cake, coffee and pies. Altogether, everything presages a sweeping success for the afternoon's entertainment.

TENNIS MATCHES MONDAY

Under the supervision of Mr. Julius Lehman, superintendent of the Union high school summer playground, the tennis matches arranged as shown below will be played Monday. These are men's doubles. The rest of the singles will be played Tuesday. Following is the program for Monday:

Ed Sadler and M. Preeman vs. J. M. Lafferty and Ed Heacock, 9:30 a. m. Miller Fishel and J. Westwood vs. Joe Fishel and I. Westwood, 10:15 a. m. W. Badger and P. Greenwalt vs. J. Lehman and M. Woodward, 11:30 a. m. Carlton Padelford and Jack Wagner vs. H. Bidwell and T. Phillips, 12:30 p. m. Preeman and Brown vs. J. Robertshaw and Balthis, 5 p. m.

This will be a most interesting set of matches and should bring out a large crowd of interested spectators. Mr. Lehman invites all the boys of the city to come around and see the games.

Mr. J. E. Bassett, 1445 Valley View road, Casa Verdugo, has very kindly sent a check for $5 to Mr. Lehman to help in defraying the cost of the outfit for the playground and with the hope that others will follow his example.

MEXICO'S STARVING ONES DEPRIVED OF RED CROSS AID

One of the unspeakable features of the deplorable situation in Mexico is the virtual barring of Red Cross relief supplies from the thousands of famishing non-combatants in that country. Neither the Carranza nor the Villa authorities are co-operating in the relief work in any way, and Red Cross officials report that it is helpless to undertake to relieve hunger so long as present conditions obtain. In view of the fact that marked scarcity of food supplies prevails over much of that ill-fated land, a real calamity seems impending. It is not improbable that this acute and widespread suffering, together with the apparent hopelessness of the factional split and the inability of any of the factional leaders to dominate the political situation, pacify the country and relieve its poignant distress, may impel President Wilson to act soon, in decisive manner, as he warned the Mexican leaders he would if they do not compost their differences.

BIG FIELD FOR NEWS

CANDIDATES HAVE BIG TERRITORY IN WHICH TO SECURE SUBSCRIPTIONS

Second Extra Vote Offer

Here's the second big extra vote offer of the contest. Forty thousand extra votes will be issued on every $25 worth of new subscriptions to the Evening News or Tri-City Progress turned into the Glendale Evening News office between Saturday, July 17, and Saturday, July 31, at 8 o'clock p. m. All daily subscriptions to count on this offer must be for at least three months, and all subscriptions to the Tri-City Progress must be for one year or longer.

The city of Glendale is not the only territory in which contestants will find people interested in the Evening News or the Tri-City Progress, for both papers have dozens of regular readers in Tropico, Burbank, Casa Verdugo, La Canada, Eagle Rock, etc. Many more would be glad to subscribe if they were approached by some candidate. The field in a number of these outside towns has been but little worked and new subscribers can be secured much easier than renewals in advance can be collected in Glendale.

Both the Evening News and its companion weekly, the Tri-City Progress, are truly community papers, and furnish local news of the San Fernando valley, as do no other publications.

Just Another Week

There is but one more week left of the second extra vote offer, and every News contestant should make each day add its quota of extra votes.

The persons having the greatest number of votes on September 4th will win the $850 Maxwell Touring car. the $400 Schiller piano, the trip to the exposition, the $75 scholarship to the Isaacs-Woodbury Business college or the $50 deposit at the First National Bank of Glendale.

If you are a friend of one of the contestants give all the assistance you can during the next seven days, as the amount of extra votes secured by each contestant between now and Saturday, July 31, will affect the chances of the prize winners considerably.

A GREAT CONVENTION

The international convention of the Christian church in Los Angeles, which is about to come to a close, has been a very large and important one and the Glendale branch of this great church has been, through its members, a very faithful and loyal attendant at all the sessions. Any person who has read the Los Angeles papers for the past week cannot fail to be impressed with the strength, influence and harmony which prevails among the disciples of Christ throughout the work.

All sessions of the local church have been suspended since last Sunday morning, but beginning tomorrow regular services will be resumed.

Bible school at 9:30 will be followed by a sermon by Rev. Morton L. Rose of Watsonville, an old friend of Mr. Francis, and a very interesting preacher.

The evening discourse will be delivered by Rev. H. F. Ritz of Anaconda, Mont., who took a prominent part in the great convention. This announcement should attract large audiences at both these services.

Special music at both services. We hope for a record attendance at Sunday school at 9:30.

Communion service at the Bible Institute at 3 p. m. tomorrow and preaching there tomorrow evening will bring the convention to a close.

LULLABY

Sleep sweetly, my dear little one,
You have played all the long summer day,
And now that the day is done
Rest from your frolic and play.
The birds are asleep in the trees,
The squirrel asleep in his nest;
The lily bud nods in the breeze,
The sun has sunk low in the west.

The moon shines so big and so bright,
The stars are aglow in the sky;
Sleep through the warm summer night,
Sleep calmly for mother is nigh.
Sleep sweetly, my dear little love,
Nestled at mother's side,
May the good God who rules from above
Be with you whatever betide.

VETERANS PICNIC

N. P. BANKS POST, CORPS AND S. OF V. ENJOY OUTING AT ECHO PARK

The annual picnic of N. P. Banks Post, Corps and Sons of Veterans was held at Echo park Friday and was attended by over one hundred and fifty of the members and their families. All of the lunch tables in the park were occupied by the merry picnickers and many were obliged to find spaces under the trees on the lawn, where they spread their lunches.

Samuel Parker lead in prayer and all joined in singing "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow" preceding the luncheon.

Post Commander G. W. Sanford gave two of his original poems, following the discussion of the splendid picnic dinner. Mr. Sanford's poems are always a pleasure to his audience and when given in his own inimitable style bring forth a round of applause.

Samuel Parker read one of his splendid poems dedicated to "Woman." All were generous in their applause of Mr. Parker's ideas of woman, especially the men.

Mrs. Eustace Benton Moore delighted the picnickers by reading several selections in her usual happy and entertaining manner.

I. J. Spafford also contributed to the impromptu program by giving several readings. The picnic would not have been so joyous if all had not joined in singing "America" with a vim that echoed the sweet notes of our national hymn through the leafy branches of the trees, which had been decorated in flags.

NORTH GLENDALE

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Parsonage of 829 Lincoln place are entertaining as their house guest Miss Florence Markham of National City, San Diego county.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Miller of 906 Ethel street returned very recently from San Diego, where they spent a week viewing the exposition, also enjoying a trip to Old Mexico and other points of interest while there, reporting a most delightful time.

Mrs. Ad McDaniels of 923 Fairview avenue was the guest of her sister, Mrs. O. R. Liskem of 219 West Fifty-third street, Los Angeles, at a beautifully appointed luncheon party—the other guests being Los Angeles friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Reuben George of Arden avenue entertained with a very pretty dancing party Friday evening in honor of their house guest, Miss Ruth Vernon of San Diego. The attractive home was transformed into an old-fashioned flower garden and various hued blossoms were in evidence everywhere. Dancing was indulged in until the wee sma' hours and during a short intermission dainty refreshments were served by the gracious hostess. The guests who enjoyed the delightful occasion included Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Blue, Mr. and Mrs. Gerold Blue of Fairmont avenue, Mr. and Mrs. J. Earl McKeever of 421 North Brand boulevard, Mr. and Mrs. John Rhind, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Fairchild, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar McSpadden of Arden avenue, Mr. E. N. T. Burnett of Glendale, Miss Yvonne Reisch of New York, Mr. B. Cooper, Mr. Frank Elliott, Mr. L. Butler and Miss Peterson of Los Angeles and the charming honoree, Miss Ruth Vernon.

Many delightful trips through the Sunny Southland are being enjoyed by the charming guest, who is seeing Southern California for the first time.

The stork was a welcome visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Nash of Burchett street, who are the proud parents of a beautiful baby boy born to them July 15. We are very glad to announce that both mother and child are doing very nicely.

RETURN FROM CAMPING TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Middleworth and sons, Ordway and Louis, have recently returned from a most delightful camping trip of two weeks at Big Bear Lake. They made the trip in their Locomobile and found the roads in very good condition. They report the fishing good; they caught the limit and had plenty of delicious mountain trout while in camp and even brought some home. Melvin and Harry Moore were enjoying camp life at the same place while the Middleworths were there, Harry Moore returning with them.

KEEN BALL GAME

THE HIGH SCHOOL PLAYGROUND TEAM BEATS CASA VERDUGO, 12 TO 11

Union high school playground ball team showed its quality this morning by pulling a victory out of one of the most closely contested games ever witnessed on the field there. Gabbage and Hastings were the batteries for the Union high school playground team. Budway and Page pitched for Casa Verdugo.

Van started things by flying to right field, where a fence interfered with the fielding of the ball. Several errors resulted in three runs. Joe Fishel started pitching, but discovered that his arm was not in good condition. Gabbage stepped into the breach and pitched good ball. Morse singled, stole second and got home on Van's error.

In the second, Gabbage got a two-bagger with the bases filled, letting in two scores. At the close of the second the score was tied. In the third Verdugo scored twice on errors. In the fourth the Unions showed some very pretty fielding and managed to put out three men straight. Crandall fielded a line drive and made a long throw to first in the fifth, thereby making a double. Page got a two-bagger and Miller fanned.

The sixth inning showed the teams still neck and neck. Gabbage fanned three men. Gabbage also hit a two-bagger over the fence. Morse's single tied the score. Baker got a two-bagger. Fishel got a three-bagger. Hastings got a hit and home on errors.

In the seventh the score was tied again. Baker got a two-bagger over the fence. Fishel also hit a two-bagger, sending Baker home. Hastings fanned and Crandall fanned.

In the ninth Van got a two-bagger and the game was won by the Union high school playground team, 12 to 11. The evenly balanced contest evoked much interest among the spectators. The contest was so close that the game might have been either side's.

There is likely to be another game between the two teams before long. Meanwhile, a game is being arranged for next Saturday with the strong team from Echo park.

VERDUGO PARK IS BUSY

Every day adds to the popularity of Verdugo park. The privileges and accompaniments of the park are becoming widely known, with the result that more and more societies are holding their picnics there. One of the big companies that enjoyed a pleasant day at the park last week was the Insurance Underwriters of California. The Moreland Motor company employes will be at the park tomorrow and on September 6 there will be a large party of more than 3000 of the Knights of Pythias of Southern California. That will be Labor Day and there will be many others in the park on that occasion.

BAND CONCERT TONIGHT

The following program will be given by the Glendale municipal band this evening at the Pacific avenue school, concert to begin at 8 o'clock:

March, "Washington Grays" (Graffula).
Overture, "Poet and Peasant" (Suppe).
Waltz, "Dream Girl" (Harlem).

BALL TEAM TO MEET

Baseball enthusiasts will be glad to learn that steps are being taken to put the game in Glendale on a proper footing. Mr. W. A. Hail, superintendent of Verdugo park, has arranged for a general meeting of all the Glendale boys interested in the game. This meeting will be held tomorrow (Sunday) morning at 10 o'clock in Verdugo park.

All Glendale boys interested in having a good ball team are requested to appear in the park on Sunday morning in baseball uniform. After the team has been organized and everything is in working order, a game will be played.

"GLENDALINSKY" AUGUST 5

By mistake the date of the next "Glendalinsky" to be given by the Glendale Commandery was published as September 6. It should have been August 5. This date was set on the unanimous request of those present at the successful affair on Thursday last. The guests who were present on that occasion are looking forward with interest and expectation to the coming event.

PROFITABLE ADVERTISING

It is too late in the history of modern business to make any apology for advertising. The necessity for advertising is fairly well known by this time and the responsible business man who would come out boldly and say that there is no need to advertise would probably get more publicity than he had bargained for. It is characteristic of the age that even the churches advertise and find it to their profit.

No community is so situated that advertising can be neglected by its business men. Wherever there is a carefully edited newspaper, with a good circulation, there is a first-class medium for advertising and one that can greatly benefit the community of business people.

There are certain elements necessary for the proper conduct of any business. These are first, to have the goods. It is necessary to have first-class goods in order to live up to what the public expects. Then it is equally necessary to have salesmanship. To be a good salesman, a merchant must be first affable. He must greet his customers with just the proper degree of affability that makes them feel that they are welcome in his store and that the proprietor has their interests at heart as well as his own. It is not necessary to be fulsome or to overdo one's manner in handling the public. Too much effusion is as bad as too little. The manner must be suited to each customer.

Then having the goods one can have confidence in showing and recommending them. There must be not only thorough acquaintance with the goods or material that is being handled, but there must also be thorough knowledge of how to deal with any customer. Customers are easily offended. It is absolutely necessary not to disagree with a purchaser or prospective purchaser.

Granted that a merchant is fortunate enough to have such a sales combination as that just detailed, he must make it known that he is doing business and where he is doing business. He must also set forth to the public the merits of his goods, otherwise they will go to the store that is in the habit of taking them into its confidence, showing them all it has and proving to them that it is giving them as much advantage in the transactions that pass between them as is possible and consistent with good business management.

Without advertising this cannot be done. Advertising goes into the homes of the people. Newspaper advertising reaches the public in its slippers, after supper, when the children are asleep, when the mind is attuned to listen, when wife and husband are in accord on the subject of household necessities. It talks without possibility of offense. It is unmistakable in its descriptions and definite in its setting forth of prices, and of the merits of goods, and it holds and convinces those who buy. On the morrow they will be at that store, drawn thither by judicious advertising.

COMPETITIVE CONSUMPTION

Glendale is not entirely a country community, but it has certain features that place it to a certain extent in that category and its wise citizens of both sexes may well take to heart the teaching of the United States department of agriculture, which counsels in its recently issued yearbook the people of small and growing communities to avoid the fatal mistake of trying to emulate the big city. This emulation has often been to blame for a most expensive rivalry. People of a small community are frequently induced by this rivalry or emulation to purchase things not desirable for their own sakes, but desired because others have them and we want to keep up with our neighbors.

There is a vast deal of truth in this counsel. One of the most destructive forms of competitive consumption is the effort which country people make to act and dress like city people. This is a species of action born out of a feeling of inferiority on the part of the country people. There is only one thing that can cure it. People in small communities must organize themselves and develop a feeling of solidarity and pride in being members of a self-sustaining and independent circle.

If the people of the smaller towns would once feel that they are the equals if not the superiors of those in the big cities, they would cease to follow like sheep their every leap in the dark. There is something in having pride in oneself and one's accomplishments and possessions. As Audrey says in "As You Like It," "a poor thing, but mine own." To feel that what is one's own is worthy of honor, pride and affection is the secret of content and also of independence. It is indeed a poor thing to follow in a trail tramped out by alien feet.

Competitive consumption is often caused by the rivalry between members of the same class or community to outshine one another in matters of consumption, display or ostentation. "Conspicuous waste" becomes a recognized method of advertising respectability. Under this system, no matter how much money we have, we can never live in mental comfort, but will strive with might and main for more.

One of the most valuable results that any community can attain in the development of its communal life is to effect such a standardization of consumption as to stop this strenuous form of competition. When people of small communities cease trying to ape the spendthrift city people, when they have the mental and moral courage to set up their own standards of consumption and to live by those standards, they will be on the high road to a profitable and rational civic development.

True happiness does not consist in the abundance of the goods we possess nor in the amount of money we squander. In the simplicity of the life lived nearer and nearer every day to home are the joy and peace that glimmer out of every living thing.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

(By Rev. R. W. Mottern)

Topic Sunday, July 25, "Christ in Me," John 15:1-11.

Bible Help

In me by faith, Eph. 3:16-21.
On condition, I John 3:21-24.
Seeking admission, Rev. 3:20.
Lost in Christ, Gal. 2:20.
Christ's aim, John 17:23.
Indwelling spirit, Rom. 8:8-14.

Seed Notes

It was the wonder of the Lord Jesus Christ, so concerned with the world conditions, that he stooped so lowly as to use object lessons to enforce divine truths. He was exceedingly anxious that every common mind should understand and enjoy his matchless teachings. So he applied divine lessons from the vine, husbandmen, the branch, fruit-bearing, cleanness, fruitlessness, cast away and burned up, etc. Everybody then, as today, knew something about them. His strong lessons from the fruitless vine and branch appeal to every heart honestly desiring to do his holy will and pleasure. For he was aware that such kinds of Christians would be in his fold. So this warning, and encouragement, "abide in me and I in you."

This indwelling of Christ in the Christian by faith is a matter of mutual desire (it is a mystical union). Two dear friends thus are united together. What is out of harmony, inconsistent, is cast aside. There is no disagreement. They stand on common ground taking the interests of the other as their own. They enjoy each other's company and work for the interests and benefit of one another. Thus it is the indwelling Christ in the believer and the indwelling Christian in Christ, have yielded to each other. The believer is hid in Christ and Christ is living in him. And like Paul, he can say, "Christ liveth in me." He can also say, "I can do all things through Christ, who strengtheneth me."

This was the great secret of Paul's power and encouragement. Whatsoever he desired, purposed, aimed at, was submitted to Christ's will. Satan had no power. Christ was all in all and wholly glorified. This cleaned out all evil and impure thoughts, yearnings and feelings. Clean hands and a pure heart in which iniquity is not regarded, are the way to make ready a dwelling place for the blessed Christ. His indwelling makes us morally and spiritually strong and courageous. It does more; it makes us fruitful in every good word and work. And when Christ is present it is he who helps us "bear much fruit." And in this our heavenly father is beautifully glorified. Thus honoring God, we have every encouragement in such blessed service to grow in divine likeness to that indwelling Christ. The personal consciousness of his presence in us becomes our joy and peace. Then we say "What a blessed companionship! What a happy heart!"

ENGLISH LUTHERAN CHURCH

During the summer our aim is to make our services both brief and interesting. Subjects are chosen that deal directly with the vitals of Christianity about which all are thinking. Our aim is to instruct and help in those things of religion that men and women want to know, for "as a man thinketh in his heart, so he is."

LET'S STAY DIPHTHERIA, PROPOSES STATE LABORATORY

There is too much diphtheria in California, thinks the state hygienic laboratory, maintained at the university by the state board of health. Its services have now been offered to any school in California to help fight the dangerous disease. There were 422 cases of diphtheria in California in March and 281 in April, there is a lot to be done.

The old way of fighting diphtheria in the schools was to send the children home, close up tight, and resort to expensive and ineffective fumigation. Then the children came back. Among them were pretty sure to be some who were "carriers," that is, who were practically well themselves, but dangerous to others because they still carried diphtheria germs in their noses and throats. These "carriers" usually had gone undetected, so the epidemic went right on spreading.

But a new way to fight diphtheria is proposed by the state hygiene laboratory, like this:

Get rid of the common drinking cup.

Get rid of the roller towel.

Keep the floors, furniture and door knobs clean.

If diphtheria does appear, take cultures from the noses and throats of the children, teachers and janitors, and send these cultures to the state hygienic laboratory at the university. These cultures will be examined without charge, and thus it can be found out if there are any "diphtheria carriers" in the school.

Then there will be opportunity for those who have been innocently spreading the disease, without the slightest suspicion they were dangerous to others, to take proper precautions and to have their noses and throats completely cured.

Meantime all the other children can keep on with their school work instead of being thrown into enforced idleness. This is declared infinitely better than the time-wasting and ineffective old method of quarantining a whole school without finding out where the diphtheria really came from and without really doing anything at all to check its spread.

A lady in the country recently advertised in the local papers for a "handy man."

"What I want," she said to the first applicant, "is a man that will do odd jobs about the house, run errands, one that never answers back and is always ready to do what I want."

"Ah," said the applicant as he turned away, "it's a husband you're looking for, ma'am."—Kansas City Star.

This is mother's busy season. Father and the children will get busy next winter with the delicious morsels that mother is canning and preserving.

We hear no regrets expressed by those who have been careful with fire in the forest reserves.

She is but eleven years of age, but renders the most difficult music with ease.

FRUIT IN FIRELESS COOKER

It may not have occurred to many housewives that the usefulness of the fireless cooker could be extended to the cooking of fruit and the making of jams and jellies, yet that is one of the functions of that adjunct to easy housekeeping that is of great service. Mrs. John R. Barrows, 443 West Colorado street, made the experiment recently with great success, being able to prepare and set in the cooker quantities of apricot jam that were left to their own devices and found to be perfect without any trouble on the part of the housewife.

WILL START PEARL FARM

Encouraged by the success of Mississippi river clam farmers in raising pearls in fresh water clams, Yee Lik, a Chinese, is about to make an experiment with salt water clams in the lagoons of Playa del Rey. He says that in his native land the artificial development of pearls in oysters has been carried on with more or less success for centuries. Some years ago an American traveler applied the same proposition to fresh water clams with a considerable degree of success and produced pearls of high quality and various colors.

Lik says the operation is simple. The clam is wounded and a small bird shot is inserted in the wound. The pearl is manufactured by nature in its attempt to counteract the baneful effects of the foreign substance. This is done by surrounding the shot with a secretion which in time becomes thoroughly hardened and perfect pearl. The color of the gem is regulated by the coloring matter embedded in the wound with the shot.

WOOD WASTE EXCHANGE

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Since the inauguration of its Wood Waste Exchange on April 15 last, the Forest Service has been requested to list 147 mills and factories as having waste material for sale, while during the same time 76 other wood-using concerns have asked to be listed as desiring to purchase waste of a wide range of species in specified dimensions or as mill or factory run. The latter have been included in the list of "Opportunities to Sell Waste" which is sent monthly to concerns which have waste material for sale. This list is growing steadily, but the Forest Service is anxious to accelerate its rate of growth, inasmuch as it comprises only about half as many buyers as there are sellers listed under "Opportunities to Buy Waste."

The Forest Service has just been notified by a large novelty manufacturing concern in New York City that the Wood Waste Exchange has enabled it to obtain its raw material at a considerable saving of money. This factory uses small, semi-finished blocks of dogwood, which it makes into patent spool holders. The factory's requirements were published under "Opportunities to Sell Waste" and a manufacturer of shuttle blocks promptly seized the opportunity to dispose of the pieces of dogwood which previously were discarded as waste in his factory.

Similarly, other buyers are now, through the Wood Waste Exchange, obtaining material of good quality at a cost lower than they had been paying for raw material in the form of logs or standard lumber, and without themselves having to accumulate waste by cutting raw material into required sizes. On the other hand, many mills and factories which were burning their waste or disposing of it at firewood prices are now selling it at a fair profit.

The Forest service desires the cooperation of all manufacturers of small wooden commodities and invites them to list their requirements with the Wood Waste Exchange. There is no charge for this service.

PARASITES IN ANIMALS

"My stock has worms. What can I do for them?" This question is often asked by farmers of the Bureau of Animal Industry's Zoological Division, which investigates live stock diseases caused by worms and other parasites. The farmer does not always realize that there are many different parasites affecting animals, and that what might help them in one instance might not in another, and so the division can only write back to the farmer, "Send in specimens of the worm." The moral is that owners of live stock affected with parasitic disease should, if possible, send in a sample when writing the zoological division for assistance in getting rid of it. The symptoms of the disease should also be described in some detail.

There are thousands of species of parasites belonging to the animal kingdom already known to man, and new ones are continually being discovered. Some of them appear to be quite harmless; others are most injurious, and some produce conditions for which no cures have been discovered. The loss to the live-stock industry in the United States from animal parasites amounts to hundreds of millions of dollars every year, and in addition to this damage certain of these parasites can be transmitted to man, either in meat or in other ways. It was for the purpose of investigating such parasitic organisms with the view of developing methods of prevention, control, and treatment that the zoological division of the bureau of animal industry was established. The division now possesses one of the largest collections of specimens of parasites in the world, which is most useful for purposes of reference in identifying specimens sent in by farmers, veterinarians and others.

In conducting its investigations, the zoological division endeavors to have in view direct practical objects, as the control and eradication of a certain parasite infesting a particular kind of animal. The comparative efficacy of stock dips as remedies for external parasites, such as scab mites, lice and ticks, have been determined, including the arsenical dip. This as an efficient means of destroying cattle ticks has been an important factor in the progress made in tick eradication in our Southern States.

Among other parasites which have been investigated with a view to eradicating them are gid parasites in sheep, roundworms of cattle, sheep, and other ruminants, tapeworms of chickens, lice and mange of hogs, fringed tapeworm of sheep, a trypanosome of American cattle, sarcosporidia, tapeworm cysts in the muscles of sheep or sheep measles, beef measles, trichinae and roundworm of hogs.

During the past year several outbreaks of trichinosis among individulas in Pennsylvania, Wisconsin and South Dakota were investigated by inspectors from the department's meat-inspection division. In each instance the disease was traced to sausage or a similar product eaten raw or insufficiently cooked. The zoological division has shown that, contrary to the universally accepted opinion, certain low temperatures (zero to 10 degrees F.) will effectively destroy the vitality of these parasites in pork.

In order to study methods for controlling parasites of live stock, a farm near Washington has been rented. Here rotation of pastures, medicinal treatment, and other means will be tried out to determine their influence in eradicating such dangerous enemies of agriculture. Arrangements are now being made for an extensive study on the farm of methods for eradicating the internal parasites of sheep, particularly the stomach worm.

THINKING IN MONEY

One of the ablest students in finance the United States has says that "thinking in hundreds of millions" first became habitual in the United States in 1901. He adds, "We are beginning to learn now to think in thousands of millions." What he has in view more especially is the mounting indebtedness of some of the nations now at war; but he might have included the export business of his own country had he known what the treasury figures for the fiscal year closing June 30 would show. Mr. Noyes' analysis of the outlook, be it said, is that experience hitherto has always shown that, let national liabilities mount as they may in time of strife, predictions of economic ruin never come true. The previously hidden but procurable capital comes forth when a supreme sense of duty calls for it.

Our neutrality toward the nations engaged in the great war should be genuine and absolute.

If the police system of New York had been divorced from politics and firmly established on a merit basis, there would have been no Rosenthal murder and no Becker case.

Some of those who contend that an occasional war is a good thing, contributing to the progress of mankind, are not fired with zeal to get out on the firing line and be shot to pieces.

Lovers of peace never have faltered in defense of the Amrican flag when it became necessary to defend it. The peace lover is as militant a patriot as the veriest jingo, if his country beb dragged into an unavoidable war.

It would seem that the world's supply of love and good-will is running low. But when the great war ends there will be swift restocking. The world is not giving itself over permanently to hatred and dark passions.

From present indications it will be a long time before this country will be worried with the problem of excessive immigration. Europe will keep its millions at home, in all probability, not only to fight the great war to its finish, but to rehabilitate the war-riven lands after the conclusion of peace.

"Halloa, Paddy, how is it you're not working at your job just now?"

"What did you strike for?"

"Well, it was loike this: Wan wake ago cum tomorrow night Oi was put to wurrk amongst a gang av Oitalians, all bilermakers loike meself.

Son was reading the financial page and turned to inquire: "What is the difference between a call loan and a time loan?"

"Generally speaking," said dad, "there is no difference at all. Before you can get a fellow to repay a call loan you have to call and call again, and if it's a time loan you have to call time and time again."

"Auntie, did you ever get a proposal?"

"Once dear. A gentleman asked me to marry him over the telephone, but he had the wrong number."

USE OF SWEET PEPPERS

Sweet garden peppers, either green or after they have turned color, are deservedly popular vegetables, whose use has become common throughout the United States rather recently. Another name for this vegetable is pimiento. Sometimes it is called pimento, though this is not correct—pimento really meaning allspice. Sweet peppers can be grown easily in the garden and are a common market crop. They should have a place in the home vegetable plot, along with the sharp red peppers used for seasoning, pickles, etc., which they resemble in all respects except flavor, being mild, where the red peppers are biting.

Sweet peppers may well be planted generously, for they have many uses on the table and any surplus may be canned. Good methods for this purpose have been worked out by experts of the department of agriculture as part of the canning club work. In large markets green peppers can be had almost all the year, as they bear shipment well. Raw green peppers are very useful for seasoning, for salad making, and so on. As is always the case with vegetables, they should be washed before use. They are used also in making many dishes, of which baked stuffed peppers is well known. The top of the pepper is cut off, the "core" and seeds removed, and the pepper filled with a well-seasoned stuffing and baked until tender and brown. If one wishes, a little butter or stock may be poured into the pan with the peppers to keep them moist. Corn-beef hash is a popular stuffing, as is boiled rice and chopped cicken seasoned with celery, a bit of onion and so on. Rice and nuts may also be used, or a mixture of rice and vegetables with butter and seasoning. Before canning, and before cooking if one wishes (though this is not necessary), the outer skin of the peppers may be removed by placing them in a hot oven until the skin blisters and cracks, which should not be more than 10 minutes, and then removing it with the aid of a slender knife.

Sweet peppers, either fresh or canned, are particularly good chopped or pounded fine and mixed with cottage cheese. Such cheese may be served with salad or used as a filling for sandwiches and in similar ways. Department of Agriculture publications contain a number of suggestions for the use of sweet peppers and for making sweet pepper dishes.

Some methods of preparing them, recently tested in the office of home economics, follow:

Cream of Pimiento Soup

2 tablespoons butter.
3 tablespoons flour.
2 ounces ripe pimientos, cut into small pieces.
1 cup water or stock.
3 cups milk.
A few drops onion juice.
Salt.

Cook the pimientos in the water or stock until they are soft, and rub them through a sieve, saving the water. Melt the butter, and cook the flour in it, being careful not to brown the mixture. Add the milk, pimientos and the water in which they were cooked and reheat, stirring constantly. Season with the onion juice and salt. A small piece of onion cooked with the pimientos can be substituted for the onion juice.

Creamed Eggs With Sweet Peppers

4 hard- boiled eggs.
3 tablespoons butter.
3 tablespoons flour.
½ teaspoon salt.
1 cup milk or cream.
½ cup juice from canned pimientoes.
2 canned pimientos cut into small pieces.

Heat together the butter and flour until the flour is thoroughly cooked, being careful not to brown the mixture. Gradually add the milk and juice from the pimientos. Stir until smooth and add the pimientos and seasonings. Cut the eggs in slices or in quarters, pour the sauce over them and reheat in the oven. Sometimes this dish is covered with buttered crumbs and baked long enough to brown the top.

The hard boiled eggs may be dropped into the sauce and then the mixture poured over toast or crackers or served with a border of boiled rice.

Fried Sweet Peppers

Fried sweet peppers make an attractive garnish to serve with mutton chops, lamb chops, ham or veal cutlet. Clean the peppers as usual, cut into 3 or 4 pieces and saute until tender and lightly browned, using butter or other fat enough to keep them from burning. If canned peppers are used, drain carefully and allow them to stand until they have dried a little.

Steak Smothered in Sweet Peppers

1½ pounds beef round steak.
1 cup bread crumbs.
1 small onion.
A little sage or mixed poultry seasoning.
1 quart of mixture of canned tomatoes and canned peppers, or
1 quart of mixture of fresh sweet peppers and fresh tomatoes cut in slices.

Spread over the steak a layer of bread crumbs mixed with the onion and other seasonings. Roll and tie into shape. Place the meat in a casserole or other dish with a cover. Pour the tomatoes and pepper over the meat and cook very slowly in the oven or on top of the stove for 3 or 4 hours. If the tomatoes and peppers do not cover the meat add a little boiling water.

Many other receipts are given in a circular recently issued by the department, which is intended primarily for the canning clubs, but is of much interest to housewives who wish recipes for peppers. The first part of the circular deals with the cultivation and growth of peppers. This circular may be had free upon application to the department.

Do evil spirits go to church?

Is Christ able to drive out evil spirits today?

Shall we heed the modern cry of evil spirits, "Let us alone?"

Is it not the genius of Chrisitanity to disturb, drive out and expel evil spirits from men and society?

A large chorus will furnish splendid music.

At the Epworth League meeting at 6:45 Mrs. D. E. Johnston will discuss the topic, "Is It Ever Right to Do Away from Home What One Would Not Do at Home?"

The Woman's Foreign Missionary society will take charge of the morning service tomorrow morning at the West Glendale Methodist church. Miss Esther Smith, an eminent worker of the Friends' church, will deliver the address.
